

Teachers Homework Groups Feedback

July - December 2015

Teachers Homework Groups Feedback

July - December 2015

Do you see an improvement in the overall performances of students in class work activities?

- ⇒ Yes student were more able to access the curriculum as their language confidence grew.
- ⇒ Yes, the children interact with one another and share their knowledge.

Do you feel this program has been of benefits to students?

- ⇒ Essential with classes as large as we have in this school we have many of these shy EAL refugee kids fall under our radar daily.
- ⇒ They can discuss the problems they are having at school.
- ⇒ The purpose does need to make clear to tutors though.
- ⇒ Yes. Helping sharing knowledge with students seeing the children interact with one another is really good.

Do you seen an improvement in the student's homework as a result of this program?

- ⇒ Yes I did particularly in regards to students being supportive with their use of technology.
- ⇒ All my boys who attend have improved in spelling words and done their reading regularly.
- ⇒ A number of improvements have noticed in students works as they get the work done and had guided practise .it may have been on a teachers to do list but the homework club accelerated the students ahead of the teacher remediating the student concerned .
- ⇒ Sometimes not a high standard demanded at times, allowing copying and pasting of information when the task is write in own words.
- ⇒ Improvement in the student's homework as a result of this program, they are now able to work and read by their own and try to understand and answer the questions.

Do you feel students have gained a greater understanding of the importance of homework?

- ⇒ Not sure they at least felt supported, and able to contribute as other class members had done.
- ⇒ The importance of personalised study is perhaps more important.

Any other comments?

⇒ New replies are based on experience when not in foundation oh that we could have the funds for the second night of this (to include foundation kids) they do a great job .